About SolidWP

SolidWP isn't just another WordPress plugin vendor—it's a comprehensive ecosystem designed to give your website a seriously solid foundation.

Whether you're managing a single blog or juggling dozens of client sites, SolidWP offers three core products that work beautifully together:

Solid Security Pro stops brute force attacks, adds two-factor authentication, and includes Patchstack integration for virtual patching. Think of it as your site's personal bodyguard that never sleeps.

Solid Backups NextGen uses cloud-first technology for daily incremental backups with one-click restore. No more relying on your hosting server's backup system—this runs independently and gives you complete peace of mind.

Solid Central is your command centre for managing multiple WordPress sites. Real-time visibility, bulk updates, and a detailed activity timeline make site management feel like a breeze rather than a chore.

The beauty? You can grab individual products or bundle everything into Solid Suite and save even more. WordPress professionals love SolidWP because it eliminates the "plugin patchwork" approach—you're getting proven, battle-tested tools from a single trusted source.

Why This SolidWP Black Friday Sale Is Worth It

Here's the thing about SolidWP's pricing structure—they already offer first-year discounts throughout the year. But during Black Friday 2025, those savings get even sweeter with an additional 30% off (excluding monthly plans and storage-only options).

Let me give you some perspective. The Solid Suite for 1 site normally costs $199, but you'd pay just $139.30 for the first year under standard pricing. With the Black Friday discount layered on top, you're looking at approximately $97.51—that's over 50% off the regular price when you combine both offers.

Or take Solid Central Pro for 10 sites at $69.30 (down from $99). This is ideal if you're managing client websites and need that centralised dashboard. The value proposition becomes absolutely ridiculous when you consider what you're getting: security monitoring, backup management, bulk updates, and premium support—all from one place.

I've used both their security and backup plugins on my own projects, and honestly, the time savings alone justify the cost. One client emergency avoided pays for the entire year's subscription.

Extra Perks & Features You're Getting

Beyond the core functionality, SolidWP throws in some seriously valuable extras that make this Black Friday deal even more compelling:

 Solid Academy Access – Included with Solid Suite, this business management and growth training is valued at $299. You're getting expert guidance on building your WordPress business, not just technical tools.

 Patchstack Integration – This alone is worth the investment. Patchstack provides virtual patching for WordPress vulnerabilities, meaning your site gets protected against security threats even before official patches are released. It's proactive security rather than reactive.

 Centralised Management – If you've ever wasted hours logging into individual WordPress dashboards to update plugins, you'll appreciate having everything in one place. Update 50 sites with a few clicks.

 Premium Support – Paid plans include private ticketed support. When something goes wrong (and in WordPress, eventually something will), you're not stuck posting in forums hoping for answers.

 Activity Timeline – This detailed logging feature lets you track exactly what changed and when. Perfect for troubleshooting issues or auditing site changes.

 Cloud Infrastructure – Your backups live on SolidWP's cloud servers, not your hosting account. This means even if your hosting provider has a catastrophic failure, your data is safe and recoverable.

The combination of these features creates a genuinely enterprise-grade WordPress management system that's accessible to solo site owners and small teams.
